Series, 2023

The life between four walls, when boundaries are drawn the hard way and difficultly, this series of four pictures symbolize the struggle with finding a sense of peace and a sense of self during isolation. This can be a physical experience of an emotional/mental condition. The sense of feeling home during an isolated limbo can be a safe haven for some but also a prison for others, the self-indulgement in solitude can only be applied with boundaries to those in the outside world, but then the sense of safety can only exist within a limited space. A Home Alone invites to the reflection of loneliness and solitude while falling into an incidental isolation.
